

THE HORNED ASPS FIERY BACK BITER VIPER

This is the story of the Fiery Back Biter Horned Asps Viper; having microwave hearing, heat seeking infra-red vision, hydraulically loaded, capable of quick burst speeds up to 180-mph plus. They strike their victim from the rear, and some time in the rear, crumbling the biggest strongest person to their knees.

This voracious beast the ever illusive devious Back Biter Viper can change skin color quicker than a bunch of kids channel surfing cartoons on Saturday morning.

This devious viper can change into your best friend, family member, or your boss they have no limits as to who they can change into. These Back Biter Vipers greedily feed on a small stupid animal called Gossips and their close cousin Slanders. Gossips and Slanders are found everywhere from the bedroom to the boardroom. In fact they are found at the top seats of government.

But please take heed, where a Gossip is or Slander are found a Back Biter Viper isn't far behind to swallow them down greedily into the inter-most parts of their fat bellies.

The Back Bite Horned Asps Viper are fueled by these little stupid beast Gossips and Slanders after greedily gorging themselves with them they become white hot burning with anger and hate at this point they become deadly, but not poisonous, ready to explode!

They quickly slither behind their victims back; watch out this can happen anywhere and at anytime in seconds.

Then they quietly cock their hydraulic loader waiting their victim's movement. Some time one of these Back Biter will miss fire right in a person home, - striking the wall, bursting into flames; often times the whole house burns to the ground destroying the entire family.

One time it was told that a Back Biter missed fired on a camping trip, the viper hit a tree and burst into flames and caught the whole Forrest on fire the beautiful Forrest burned to nothing leaving all living things dead.

When a Back Biter hits its mark which is most often does then not, the victims back burst into flames, they roll on the ground ripping their clothes off. The pour soul is always left disfigured with deep emotional scars that never seem to heal or go away. Most of them just give up and die from all the pain.

Back Biter Vipers have been known to attack each others when a Gossip runs through their nest and they have no victim to unload on. Wow! What a light show, like the Fourth of July fire works.

Once a man happen upon a Back Biter nest in a fighting frenzy as the story is told, he was hit from every direction one even pierced his chest and his heart burst into flames; he died a very agonizing death, so the story goes.

It is said the Horned Asps Back Biter Viper lays thousands of eggs some time in a person home then they leave. When the eggs hatch the little vipers will bit everyone in the house hold, and hardly if every any one survives.

One thing is certain in all of this all the victims of these vipers are burnt badly and there is a strong odor of burnt human flesh left behind.

Because of this terrible odor the victim's family, friends, and mates can no longer stand to be around them, thus, the victim dies a slow death from a broken heart.

Now please remember the Back Biter Viper attacks all classes of society the small to the great, age does not matter they have no limits when it comes to attacking the humans. They have been around since the first human being on earth and of late they seem to be growing in number, size, and voracity. There is no known protection or cure for a Horned Asps Back Viper's bit known to man.

Please take heed we all have a Horned Asps Viper lurking behind our lips attached to the back of our throats known as the tongue. So do please be strong and bit the viper before it bits some one and destroys their life.
