

The Book of Daniel in its Historical Contexts

Foreign rulers in the Book of Daniel:

Babylonians :

Dan 1-4: Nebuchadnezzar (605-562 BCE)

Dan 5, 7, 8: Belshazzar (co-regent with Nabonidus: 549-539 BCE)

Medes:

Dan 6, 9: "Darius the Mede" (non-existent ruler; possibly referring to Cyrus' successor, Darius I: 522-486 BCE)

Persians :

Dan 10-12: Cyrus of Persia (550-530 BCE)

Selected Timeline of Jewish History

606-535 BCE - Approximate era of the literary setting of the Book of Daniel

597 BCE - Nebuchadnezzar besieges Jerusalem; first expulsion of Jews to Babylon

586 BCE - Babylonian Exile: Nebuchadnezzar razes Jerusalem; second (larger) expulsion of Jews to Babylon

539 BCE - Cyrus the Persian conquers Babylon and liberates Judea; exiled Jews return to their land, now under Persian rule. The Temple at Jerusalem is rebuilt; beginning of the Second Temple period.

333 BCE - Persian Empire is among the lands conquered by Alexander the Great; the Land of Israel comes under Hellenistic rule (first Ptolemaic and then Seleucid).

168-167 BCE – Persecutions of Jews under the Seleucid king Antiochus Epiphanes = Current scholarly consensus for the composition of the latest portions of the Book of Daniel (i.e., the apocalyptic material in Dan 7-12) and their compilation together with earlier narrative material about Daniel (i.e., the stories in Dan 1-6)

167-164 BCE - Maccabean Revolt: under the leadership of Judas Maccabeus and other members of his family, Jews respond to the persecution by means of a successful military revolt against the Seleucids and gained the freedom of self-rule in their own land for the first time since the Babylonian Exile.
